

Healthy habitats

Where an animal lives (or its habitat) is very important, as it provides food, shelter and a nursery area where the animal can have offspring.

There are many things that can impact on the fish's habitat, so it's important that we help look after it.

Here are some simple tips to help protect a fish's habitat:

- Always put your rubbish in the bin, or better still – recycle!
- When fishing, always put your discarded fishing line and bait in the bin.
- When out in a boat, drop anchor in a clear sand patch, to avoid damaging the seagrass and reefs.
- When walking through sand dunes or along a river, always use the paths provided.

There are 5 differences to be found!

Spot the differences between the pictures below.

